Have you read the new Constitution?
P. T. BARNES, the great showman, is dead.

The presence of the State Militia has had a quieting effect upon the recent labor strikes in Pennsylvania.

SAMUEL J. THOMAS has been dead nearly five years, and the contest over his will is still going on in the New York courts.

CHARLES E. KINCHOL on trial at Washington for the killing of ex-representative Taulbee, of Kentucky, has been acquitted.

CHICAGO was visited with a $1,000,000 fire last Sunday, the most destructive conflagration that has occurred there since the big fire of 1871.

It was nothing short of cruelty for a crowd of men to force "Brother Ben" to take a nomination when he had "not thought of it; he didn't want it."

It is a matter of regret to know that the Democratic party had in it some men, who were so thoughtless, as to allow themselves to be yanked into that meeting which nominated Harrell.

Circuit Court convenes at Hardinsburg Monday. The only case on the criminal docket attracting attention is the one against Sam. Harrell, for the murder of Marshal Thompson at Hardinsburg last fall.

The Constitutional Convention was in session 214 days. The instrument they framed for the people has cost the State about $200,000 all told. This is a good round sum for a Constitution that the people will not likely accept when they are called to vote on it.

EX-REPRESENTATIVE candidate for the Legislature, Milton Cole, it is said got a little bit of the Alliance Convention, when that body refused to take out a straight Alliance card for the Legislature last week. It is somewhat surprising that the irrepressible Harrell wished to get there himself.

The women vote out in Kansas. At a recent national election there the wives of a number of Republicans were said to have banded together and voted the Democratic ticket. Of course their husbands raised snarl about it, but when the women hand together it's time for the men to be huddling out.

The State Board of Equalization has completed its labors at Frankfort. It makes a total increased valuation for the State upon land, taxes, and personal property, subject to equalization for the current year over 1880-90 of about $20,000,000; making the total taxable valuation this year nearly $857,000,000.

By a vote of 54 yeas to 34 nays, the Constitutional Convention decided that "the seat of government shall continue in the city of Frankfort, unless removed by a vote of two-thirds of one house of the first General Assembly, which convenes after the adoption of this Constitution." "Which leaves Louisville and Lexington out in the cold so far as the capital is concerned."

There is an element and an important one, with whom the Wheeler racket will not work. The colored citizen is plainly prohibited from uniting with the order. They receive him under no circumstances, their constitution being very plain upon that point. He will certainly consider it an exhibition of unbecoming cheek to say the least of it, if a man approaches as a wheel candidate and asks his support.

The action taken by some of the members of the county Farmers' and Laborers' Union last Friday was a surprise to most people not members of the order, from the fact that the whole proceeding was in a different direction from that which was expected. It was generally believed that the order would nominate a candidate for representative to the Legislature, and of course the uninitiated never knew but that this could be done without violating any of the rules of the order. But it seems that the order intended to be non-political, and the law makers so arranged it that no political nominations should be made by it. After a thorough trial it was found that the constitution would not bear scrutiny on that point, and a citizens' meeting was called to make the nomination. Accordingly there was a meeting ostensibly for the purpose of nominating a candidate for representative to the Legislature, but really for the purpose of devising and starting on foot the most and surest anti-Democratic measure. For several years Democratic majorities have been elected here by large and discouraging to Republicans. It is no easy matter to find a man willing to submit his name for office on that ticket. The possibility of an election would be very uncertain, attention the loss of time and the outlay of considerable money necessarily follows. To be still and see the Democrats hold all the offices does not act as a stimulant to the Republicans of course, and if they decide means to justify them it will be done even to affiliating with the Alliance. But as we said last week, that if the prominent Republicans are looking for H. Harrell, we are not surprised of it.

No longer prospective—but realized.

Now for the much needed water works.

The prospects of Cloverport are brighter this spring than ever.

Junkie Mercer's doodle bugs are again being let out of there.

Mr. J. C. Loomis says, the fire days are in unlimited quantities around the city.

It is quite the fashion now to take Dr. Witt's Little Early Bitters for liver, stomach and bowel disorders. They are small pills, but mighty good ones. G. W. Short sells them.

All the mail from Harbington to this place was carried by Monday, and did not reach its destination until yesterday at 10 o'clock. This thing happens often, and is a great source of annoyance to people who need their mail and should get it promptly from the seat of government. The fact of the tardiness is, we need a daily star route over the pike to Harbington, and nothing short of this route will ever be satisfactory to both places.

Nelson, Williams & Co., Irvington, have just bought of H. C. Dowell & Son, Lexington, a fine race horse, Burnham 1400, foaled 1888, by King Rene. First dam, Thornberry; second dam, Burnham; by Hambleton 10. Burnham is a handsome and a beautifully gaited colt. He was one of the King Rene breed, which captured the $5,000 premium at Chicago, and he took the premium in his own class, at the same show. He is intended for the stud, both at Irvington and Henderson. Mr. Williams never lets an opportunity pass to secure anything good that is in horseflesh, and is doing much to add to the value of stock in this section. His fine horse, Splendor, will add to the present season at Mr. Cone's farm near Irvington. Splendor is of the same family as Burnham.

J. H. Blythe & Bro., have bought 100 acres of the Jas. T. Roberts' farm near Harbington, including the improved acreage. Price paid $2,500. They will take possession on or near May 1st. This is a good farm, and the place where the place were inoperative for more than half the year, entering them entirely off the market for their produce. Running by their farm have just purchased a good piece open all the year to two markets, Harbington and Cloverport. From their old place it required four horses to pull an ordinary load to town and one horse to make the trip. From their new farm they can haul twice as much with half the team and in less than half the time. If this isn't a practical illustration in favor of good roads, and why every farmer should be in favor of them, we fail to see it. Good country roads running all over the county is what we need most. It does not matter if they do come high, they will be cheap in the end to everybody.

At the Brick Plant.

Things are moving pretty lively up at the fortified Brick Plant. Brick-makers, carriers, stone-masons and laborers, all about forty in all, are pushing things for all they are worth. The excellent weather for the past week has enabled contractors to make quite a good showing in their work. The only trouble is in getting material fast enough. It is a much bigger thing than many of our people were looking for, and when they see it they are glad to get it. It is a wonder, Mr. Morgan, who we had as coming from Vermont, into Englishman, but has been in this country many years, his home being in Rhode Island. He is the architect of the plant and drew the plans, and will have charge of the burning of the brick. He is a thorough-going man, and knows his business. He says there will be no finer plant in the country than this one. The very latest improved machinery and all the labor-saving appliances have been secured which will make the plant second to none in the country. In addition to this, he says, we have the finest clay that he has ever seen, and it can be handled and made into brick at a less cost than any other plant he knows of.

Mr. Hayward, who is putting up the dry-house is the petence of the process, and is from Pittsburg, and represents himself, and not a Philadelphia firm as we stated last week. He, like Mr. Morgan, is a practical workman and understands thoroughly everything connected with the business, and says there is no question about the success of the enterprise.

He says this plant is one a beginning and as soon as this one is tested and proves a success, which it will be sure to do, many more will follow, making Cloverport one of the leading markets of the south for paving bricks, tile and terra cotta goods.

A company is already formed with a capital of $150,000 to erect works for the manufacture of terra cotta on Maj. Miller's farm just above the brick plant. Mr. Loomis who made the tests of the shale that secured us the brick has been busy at work on the new plant, and men for the past week on Maj. Miller's land and has succeeded in finding a splendid article of clay which will secure us the terra cotta works beyond a question. So before the summer is over you will see the Eastern suburbs of this city all dotted over with manufacturing enterprises, and the land will be made into those little melons with music that thrills and delights the ears of a progressive and live people.

The Ladies Delighted.

The pleasant effect and perfect safety with which ladies may now use the liquid fruit laxative, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favorite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the day morning, yet effective in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

DR. HARNED'S CANDIDACY AND THE THIRD PARTY.

Better Stick to the Old Ship.

Mr. Harned—at the county meeting of the Wheelers at Harbington on Saturday last I am credibly informed they nominated Dr. Ben Harned as a candidate for the legislature, a good man and herebefore a good democrat. I, Mr. Editor, was raised by a farmer and have been a farmer ever since I left the paternal roof, and have ever left a deep interest in everything that promotes the welfare of the farming interest. I have never been connected with the secret order of Wheelers, but so long as they worked in a legitimate way, for needed reforms, I was ever ready to encourage. But now to me they have passed the Rubicon, I will never with my vote help to put in place the candidate of any secret order bound political party. The remembrance of Know-nothingism with its (quaint) how and many other bloody scenes that grew directly out of its dark lantern motto, ought to be enough to deter an intelligent people from attempting to attain any measure by a means that is so contrary to the spirit of our boasted free institutions of equal rights to all, exclusive privileges to none. For thirty years Mr. Editor, I have uniformly voted with the Democratic party, and have all that time felt that I was helping to hold up the interest of the masses against the interest of monopolies, and now, when the faithful old party of the constitution has fought its principles up to the very verge of success, and is in the midst of the very principles that the Wheelers say they want, they are met just here by this party of anarchy promoting with the order to "huck back you old little scared veteran, the rich emoluments of place forever now in reach and just here we will take charge of the boat." For a good republican to make a temporary stoppage in working on his road to Democracy and reform, would seem to me natural enough, but just how any good democrat with well balanced head and heart could cut out the caper is a mystery except it would be some party luck, who was seeking preferment for which the Democracy thought him unfit.

No longer ago than last November I heard some of these ex-democrats while avowing the election of Mr. Montgomery, who was opposed by a member of this order, proclaiming loudly that it was not a political order and that Mr. M. was just as good a Wheeler in principle as his opponent. Since then a strange spell has come over their minds and now they about "never no never" will vote for the nominee of any party but that of the Wheeler. These same fellows were then loud mouthed in their denunciation of the sub-treasury bill, but now they give that as the only reason for leaving the Democracy. If you are really in earnest on this last point you, I did you a hearty good bye. I think I will vote for the nominee of any party but that of the Wheeler. These same fellows were then loud mouthed in their denunciation of the sub-treasury bill, but now they give that as the only reason for leaving the Democracy. BRICK PAVEMENTS.

An Investigation in Columbus.

The following interesting article on the subject of brick and brick pavements taken from the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, will be read with unusual interest by our people just at this time.

When it is known that we have right here in our town, a plant that will turn out brick, equal to, if not superior to the brick used in Columbus and other cities, we can more fully appreciate the importance of the new industry. The article is as follows:

One must have had an acquaintance with Columbus ten years ago to realize the astounding growth of the city in the last decade. In 1890 it had a population of fifty-two thousand. In 1890 its population was ninety-three thousand. Some of this increase came from outside sources, but the amount from this source was incalculable.

The improvement of the city has kept pace with its growth. In fact it has grown faster than the city. It was little more than a large, ill-planned, unattractive town ten years ago. To-day it is a beautiful city with many miles of electric trams, brilliant at night with electric lamps, and business carried on by day in buildings not a few of which would be ornamental to any city. The change is marvelous. To it nothing contributed more than its new pavements.

The impulse to the street work came from the Centennial Exhibition of 1893.

Cincinnati will not have forgotten that that year Columbus celebrated as well as Cincinnati the opening of the Northwest Territory. The good people of Columbus having realized three years before, in 1885, that the town was not very attractive to strangers and that a Centennial Exhibition held in it would be little more than a county fair, decided to begin the work of transforming their city by improving their streets. They secured the use of the so-called Taylor law by the city of May, 1886. Briefly, the law provides for the issue of city bonds, which are all paid by the city, for the purpose of improving the city. It is curious to notice that the law makes no mention of brick. It speaks of "granite or other stone block, asphalt or other material, cobblestone or bowdled, or any other material." It is curious to notice that the law makes no

curious to notice that the law makes no

or other stone block, asphalt or other

material, cobblestone or bow-

another, it was improving some of its streets with granite, Medina stone, and asphalt. At the date of the last report they had of stone blocks, including both granite and Medina stone, 7,24 miles, and of asphalt 11,24 miles. This was on the 1st of March, 1890. At that time they had brick streets 18,24 miles, and streets improved with the Hayden or Hallowood blocks about 6 miles. The brick continued to make its way as against its competitors, and, as has already been stated, the new streets to be improved this year will be improved with brick exclusively.

This is not the place to enter into an examination of the kinds of clay that was used in making this paving brick.
It will be enough to describe briefly and unscientifically the two oldest blocks now used in Columbus. These are the Hayden block and the Hallowood block.
They are as different from the fire brick or the building brick in use as the old-fashioned asphalt from that laid by the Warren-Scharf company. When the proposition was first made to pave Race street in this city with asphalt, there was general popular condemnation of the scheme. This was because the public knew asphalt only as it had been seen in front of St. Peter's Cathedral and on some of the sidewalks of Clifton and elsewhere. The new asphalt the public knew nothing of. So the Cincinnati public knows generally nothing about the modern paving brick. There is a little on Kline street, north of the Mail-office, and a little on Cherry street, south of the river, where the brick is not seen. So to the great majority of people in this city a description of the two blocks will be interest-

The Hayden block is ten inches in length by five in width and thickness.
It weighs 16 pounds. On the top surface are sixteen indentations, three across by five in length. These indentations are for the purpose of affirming secure foothold for horses. On the under surface are two holes, extending about half way through the body of the block. These holes are made contract, to secure the thorough vitrification of the brick. They are filled with wet sand, or cement when laid. As has been said, Lexington avenue was laid with these blocks half the present length, 1885, and Lexington avenue is still in good condition. In fact, Mr. H. H. Still, the manager of the other leading company, says on Thursday that he would be entirely willing to guarantee Lexington avenue for ten years to come.
Such high praise has been given for this block, and a half or more with this block, and it is the intention to continue this pavement the coming spring and summer a mile more to the south.

A week ago last Wednesday was a very wet, rainy day. Houses were covered up, and the streets were being run over by a mud-covered sea. The testimony is that they were very seldom slip. The Hayden block is the oldest in the business and has been used since
